

What changed

The output is no longer a static candidate list. It is a molecular evidence fabric with explicit provenance, missingness, claim status, and validation paths.

Why it matters

Partners can see which biological signals are ready for follow-up, which claims are blocked, and which data would most increase confidence.

Claim boundary

MAG/proteome molecular screening now; sample-level risk needs abundance, environmental context, uncertainty, and flux/process validation.